SUPERVISOR COMMENTS

Tonight, was a much quieter night, and a good way to end our week. Officers were able to complete all their reports and not hold any over their set of days off. During briefing the shift underwent a refresher on the "safe wrap" technique. This immobilizes combative subjects who are having mental health issues, until enough officers arrive to safely restrain the subject in question. In an associated topic, officers responded to 2 mental health situations where both subjects were placed on holds. Neither was combative. Officers also contacted a female who was in the middle of a busy road, in traffic, screaming at cars driving past her. She was determined to be under the influence and was arrested.
